Our Association's Safety Committee continues to focus on construction safety issues important to member firms. We are pleased to offer the Annual Comprehensive Construction Safety Seminar for owners, office staff, safety directors, field supervisors and construction insurance representatives. This seminar will address The Aging Work Force in the Construction Industry and the many Safety and Insurance issues that are affecting so many member firms. This seminar is a must for all company personnel who have any responsibility for safety.

As the need for up-to-date quality construction safety programs grows, UTCA's Safety Seminars become that much more critical. This year we are pleased to have Bruce Henderson of HazTek, Inc., Ken Bogdanof Conner Strong Risk Control and Mike Yarnell of OSHA all presenting valuable information that will help every company understand and accommodate to the aging population of our work force.

Nearly 25% of people aged 64-75 are still in the workforce today. These numbers are projected to increase dramatically as the Baby Boom Generation continues to get older and remain active.

All of our speakers will engage in a collaborative discussion with the audience concerning how we, as an industry, can continue to prevent fatalities and injuries on our jobsites.

Please review the enclosed Seminar program outline and utilize the Response Form for your firm's attendees. If you have any questions regarding this seminar please contact Dan Neville at (732) 292-4300.
